

KAICIID International Dialouge Centre

Arab Region Programme - Dialogue Projects 2020

Partners' Manual

1. Overview of KAICIID's approach to support local and regional organisations.

KAICIID's country programmes aim to strengthen IRD and the possibility of peaceful coexistence between different religious and faith groups in the selected countries. The organization strongly believes that this objective may be reached at its best through a grassroots approach that directly involves local population and stakeholders. It is important, in this regard, to invest in supporting initiatives on the ground that enable religious, community and civil society actors to join their efforts to promote inter-faith dialogue and peaceful coexistence

The aim of the Grants scheme is to provide funds and technical support for the implementation of projects owned by local actors or organizations, in coordination with KAICIID's established dialogue platforms/networks operating in the country/region. The overall objective of the grants has two sides: It aims to enlarge the involvement of the local population in seeking a resolution to the identified challenge/conflict by granting them the possibility to enable change within their own country. On the other side, these projects can offer the possibility for KAICIID and its established dialogue platforms to increase their impact and visibility and to learn from local partners on how to operate in the country/region. KAICIID seeks to build long-term and sustainable partnerships in the IRD field with the countries of the regions to create a constructive channel of dialogue and mutual learning.

The implementation of the Grants Scheme will aim at three different objectives:

- Contribute to peacebuilding efforts and to strengthen social cohesion in the focus countries/regions through the implementation of quick-impact local projects.
- Empower local dialogue practitioners & peacebuilders and give them the possibility to experiment with innovative approaches through small scale activities at the local or national level.
- Showcase what could be done on the ground on a pilot basis that could create an impact and be scaled-up with additional resources.

A- Running Annual

The Call is annual and it is published on KAICIID's website and official network

B- Selection criteria

The applications will be evaluated through a set of criteria to ensure that they match with the purpose of the call for proposals and with the objectives of the programmes. The criteria to be considered in the selection process are:

- Implementation and networking capacities of the applicant: Priority will be given to applicants that have the required capacities at the technical level, as well as the networking capacities, to implement projects on the ground;
- Level of alignment with KAICIID's mandate: All projects must be focused on IRD for Peace and Reconciliation;
- Priority consideration will be given to proposals which entail collaboration across religious lines;
- Impact of the project: # of people reached or impacted by the project;
- Clarity and practicality of the proposal (regarding its objectives and deliverables);
- Sustainability, replicability & scalability of the project: Proposals that are sustainable or potentially replicable will be prioritized;
- Gender sensitiveness: A priority will be given to proposals that target equally men and women as beneficiaries or target groups.

In addition to the above criteria, a due consideration will be given, by the committee, to the following dimensions in the allocation of the available resources among the proposals:

- Geographical scope: According to the country specifics, the focus can be placed on projects taking place in a specific region within the country or on initiatives aiming at a national impact);
- Categories/types of projects: The selection committee might decide to allocate the available resources to different categories of proposals, to have a good balance between them. The categories that could be taken into consideration include, for e.g., advocacy, capacity-building, publications, media and communication, social development, etc.

C- Themes - Changing focus based on strategy

The following areas have been given preference in 2020 Call

- Countering & preventing hate Speech in the name of religion on national /regional level.
- Promoting the role of diverse religious leaders and institutions as active partners involved with policymakers, governments, and international institutions to confront the pandemic and deal with crises in general, and this includes, but is not limited to: raising awareness of individuals and societies, facing all the effects of the crisis in various fields such as education, unemployment and the economic implications, psychological support, combating social stigma and domestic violence etc.

- Enhancing the role of Interreligious dialogue (IRD) in responding to Covid-19 and promoting public health. Preference will be given to interfaith initiatives focusing on community engagement and responses to the current situation concerning COVID-19 outbreak amongst vulnerable groups (elderly, people with special health conditions, women, children, and refugees, etc.)

It is worth noting that the areas might be reviewed in 2021 Call

D- Call for proposals - website

The Call will be published on KAICIIDS's website and the Platform website (still under development) website and its social media channels

KAICIID's website: <https://www.kaiciid.org/>

E-Evaluation by a committee

A committee will be established to select the proposals to receive the grants. The committee should meet at least twice to agree on the long-list and establish the short-list of applications that will benefit from grants.

F-Agreement signature

The agreement is to be legally abiding as soon as KAICIID receives the grantee's signature and all requested documentation. In case the grantee requests KAICIID's official signature and stamp on an official template that are requested by the grantee's governmental institutions, an official demand is to be submitted together with the template.

G-The amount of fund available

The International Dialogue Centre (KAICIID) has allocated funds to sponsor dialogue projects that focus on building bridges between diverse religious, and ethnic, communities in the Arab region. Possible grants range from 3000 Euro to 5000 Euro and will be evaluated based on specific selection criteria. Projects should be fully implemented within maximum six months upon the receipt of the grant, including the submission of the final reports.

H- What does this grant cover - eligible cost
